2019 highlights shown clockwise from upper left: pop-up glass collection campaign launches to address curbside recycling challenges; environmental education programs include interactive field trips; supporters gather at PRC’s 80th anniversary celebration held at The Ballroom at Ellis Preserve; PRC Board of Directors represent diverse industries, geography and areas of expertise; TRUE (Total Resource Use & Efficiency) Zero Waste Certification symposium takes place in Pittsburgh; PRC continues successful partnership with Eastern Delaware County Stormwater Collaborative.
Looking back at the accomplishments of 2019, I’m reminded that it truly was an exciting and challenging period for the Pennsylvania Resources Council. The past year witnessed the launch of new programs, the beginning of our 80th anniversary celebration and the adoption of a new mission statement to lead our work into the future.

As we look back over this eventful year, a few highlights stand out:

- The start-up of an extremely successful “pop-up” glass collection campaign that served 10,000 households and diverted 200 tons of glass from western PA landfills;
- Expanding our Stream Smart House Call service to help hundreds of homeowners reduce runoff and protect the water quality of the Delaware River;
- Hosting the TRUE (Total Resource Use & Efficiency) Zero Waste Certification symposium to educate organizations regarding fiscally responsible strategies for advancing solid waste/recycling goals;
- Launching a Recycling 101 workshop to help residents across PA adapt to the changing world of recycling;
- Realigning staff at both ends of the Commonwealth while preparing to relocate both East and West headquarters;
- Kicking off our 80th anniversary with a memorable evening of conversation, conservation and cocktails at the historic Ballroom at Ellis Preserve.

PRC remains a leader of statewide environmental education efforts, recycling and waste diversion programs, anti-litter campaigns and many other programs. We invite you to become a member and help us to lead and promote individual and collective action to prevent waste and conserve Pennsylvania’s environmental resources for each generation.
